$171 million project proposed in Romulus

Scott Spielman
Special Writer

The City of Romulus is in line for a major investment, but officials may have to tweak some current zoning ordinances to make it happen.

Members of the city council are considering changes in zoning to land near Vining and Wick roads to allow warehouse uses, a hurdle that must be overcome to bring a $171 million development to the city.

"We're not asking for design specifications to change or the size of the buildings to change.

> We are merely asking for additional use. That will basically seal the deal.

We are more than willing to abide by those," said Timothy Stoepker, a land use attorney representing the Stronach Group, which owns a large section of property there. "We are merely asking for additional use. That will basically seal the deal."

The deal would bring eight buildings to the site, each between 280,000 and 350,000 square feet. Specifically the land is north of Wick Road, east of Vining Road, south of Smith and bordered on the west by the motels that service Detroit Metro Airport. The land is currently zoned for Central Business and Regional Center uses and was included in a recent strategic plan for the area that highlighted potential uses for the property that concentrated on light industrial, research and development. Warehouse uses and other logistics-driven businesses were discouraged due to concerns about traffic patterns and wear and tear on the infrastructure.

The land has long been the subject of speculation and, at one time or another, was proposed to house everything from

Living history

Re-enactors bring past into present

Julie Brown
Staff Writer

Mike Woloszyk enjoyed high school history, so being active in the Plymouth Living History Troupe of the Plymouth Historical Museum was natural for him.

"My job is to get people to realize we have a great museum," noted Woloszyk, marketing director for the museum at 155 S. Main St. in downtown Plymouth. He's been active with the Living History Troupe about four years.

"For a number of reasons: I'm a history buff, have been since I was a kid. This is my opportunity to be on stage. The best part is working with the people," he said.

He calls Thomas Alva Edison "one of my heroes" and has portrayed Edison often. Woloszyk likes the late 19th and early 20th centuries, and has portrayed many U.S. presidents at the museum.

"It's a time where I can act and talk with people," he said, noting his similarity in appearance to Missouri native and U.S. President Harry Truman. Truman tops his president list.

"We have been doing living history events for quite a while. It's voluntary participation. They love dressing up and playing somebody else," commented Elizabeth Kelley Kerstens, museum director, Kerstens, who originates most of the living history ideas, is a Civil War re-enactor, as are some others. She lists Emily Betts, Mike Gillett, Jackie Schubert and Woloszyk as among regulars with the Living History Troupe.

"It started primarily with our Cemetery Walks," in 2010, she said. "Those just keep getting more popular."

A University of Michigan Ross Community Consulting Club study showed, "Living history is our thing," Kerstens said. Murder-mysteries at the museum are "historical in nature," she added, and set in the 1920s. The varied living history events also help with museum fundraising.

The "Ghosts of Plymouth" living history in Kellogg Park is Saturday, April 27, and has proven popular as re-enactors interact with the Plymouth community. The Plymouth Historical Museum can be reached at (734) 455-8940, has a website of www.plymouthhistory.org, and is on Facebook under Plymouth (Michigan) Historical Museum.

Both Kerstens and Woloszyk like the "A Night at the Museum" events. He notes those often draw children who watch the movie of that name featuring actor Ben Stiller, share a meal, and then interact upstairs at the museum with re-enactors who at first are "frozen" in positions in their costumes.

Those have featured Amelia Earhart, Queen Elizabeth, President Abraham Lincoln and others, said Woloszyk. His friend Ron Carley is adept at portraying Lincoln, Northville Township resident Woloszyk added.

One woman turning 75 chose "A Night at the Museum" but without the movie for her celebration. "They really do

Wayne council moves to ban marijuana shops

The City of Wayne has joined multiple other area communities in initiating an ordinance banning recreational marijuana sales in the community.

During the regular meeting March 20, members of the city council unanimously voted in favor of the first reading of a local ordinance banning facilities from selling recreational marijuana. A second reading of the proposed new ordinance would be necessary before it became effective in the city. No date for such a reading was announced.

Conditions of the proposed

> It's a lot easier to go forward and jump in rather than try to back out and cost ourselves a lot of money in the process if we were to go the other way.

ordinance would not effect medical marijuana facilities and would not criminalize possession of the legal amount of medical marijuana allowed under state law.

In Wayne, voters overwhelmingly approved the use and sale of recreational marijuana, Proposal I on the November ballot, with 4,109 yes votes and 2,150 no votes.

Mayor Pro Tem Tom Porter told the audience and fellow council members that his vote would be based on the lack of clarity in the state law. He said without some clear guidelines, he would vote to place a moratorium on establishments selling recreational establishments.

Porter said this was not a personal issue and he was not making a judgment about the habits of others.

"I do represent the residents of our city, and will make my decision based on what I feel is best for our city in totality," he said.

Mayor John Rhaesa said that restricting the sale of recreational marijuana in the city before the state provided more clarity of the law was a more prudent move than allowing the facilities and then determining that the controls or restrictions

Plans for annual Mayors' Ball under way

More than 300 community and industry leaders, including local mayors, supervisors, council members, trustees, school board members, county commissioners, state representative and U.S. Congress representatives are expected to again attend the 6th Annual Mayors' Ball this year.

The event, a fundraiser for the Boys and Girls Clubs, is set for May 18 hosted by Belleville Mayor Kerreen Conley and Romulus Mayor LeRoy Burcroff. The ball will take place this year at the Belleville Yacht Club, 831 E. Huron River Dr. in Belleville and will begin with a cocktail hour from 6-7 p.m. followed by dinner at 7 p.m. Dancing and fellowship, along with the live and silent auctions will continue until 11 p.m.

The donation is $100 per person and tickets are available at (734) 320-3834. Formal attire is encouraged.

The annual event has generated thousands of dollars in funding for the organizations which serve youth in both the Belleville and Romulus communities. Funds from the event and auction help provide a safe place for Romulus and Belleville children each year to go after school when there may be no other alternative, organizers of the event said.

> Donations for the silent and live auctions at the event are also being sought.

Funds are needed, they added, to support programming for life skills, leadership, goal setting, tutoring and recreational activities provided at the local facilities.

"These activities expand the minds and imaginations of these kids, positioning them to succeed in a world that sometimes is stacked against them. We have sponsorship funding levels to fit an organization's budget. Please consider sponsoring this event and making a difference in some very special children's lives," the two mayors said in a letter to local businesses and industries.

Donations for the silent and live auctions at the event are also being sought. Popular items include sporting event tickets, baskets or cash contributions toward live auction items or raffle baskets, organizers said. All donations are tax deductible as the clubs are a 501 c 3 organization.

For more information or to arrange a sponsorship or donation, call Conley at (313) 969-5183.

a racetrack and regional entertainment center to a large outlet mall. In fact, Stoepker said, he remembers the land being vacant and proposed for development when he drove by it on his way to law school-in 1976. None of those projects ever came to fruition.

He said the zoning change to allow for warehouse uses would change that.

"It's real money and it's ready to start now," he said. "They're ready to go; they're ready to build. They want to be here and they want to create jobs here and they're ready to take land that has been empty and unproductive for decades and put it to work."

Brent Miles, a spokesperson for Northpoint Development, agreed. Northpoint Development is the second largest industrial developer in the U.S., and he said they already have users lined up for the prospective buildings. He offered a cash escrow to the city as collateral

"You have probably been made promises that weren't kept, but I'm here to make promises that will be kept. I'm here to put my money where my mouth is," he told the council. "These are jobs today. These are construction jobs; these are union jobs. These are important to the fabric of your community."

The developers will have to wait a week or two to get their approval. The council tabled full approval of the changes, pending another study session. The postponement will give council members additional time to go over the plans and get feedback from residents.

"I want time to talk to constituents," said Councilwoman Kathy Abdo. "Something of that importance needs to have more time."

'Vintage Jumble' set at museum

The Belleville Area Museum will host a Vintage Jumble from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Saturday, April 6.

Described by organizers as "a Polka-dotted spectacular spring swap meet with historic flea market and craft show," the event will feature an appearance by the Willow Run Rosies along with vintage clothing, a bake sale, military items, collectibles, arts and crafts jewelry and other items to intrigue shoppers.

Admittance to the sale is $5 and children are admitted at no cost.

Vendors are still being accepted and can rent a table for $25 or supply their own table for $10.

Vendors can begin to set up at 7 a.m. the day of the event.

The Belleville Area Museum is located at 495 Main St. in Belleville.

For more information, call the museum at (734) 697-1944 from 3-7 p.m. on Tuesday or from noon until 4 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday.

Happy days

Library celebrates day of happiness

Canton Public Library was filled with balloons, bubbles, candy and dancing March 20, celebrating the International Day of Happiness.

Library staff members had been counting down to the celebration on social media pages for 21 days. With the hope of rewiring the brain to think more positively, three acts of kindness witnessed in the library or things staff felt grateful for were listed each day on the site.

The culmination was a celebration in the library community room when dancers jumped to a playlist of happy tunes alongside a bubble machine and disco lights. There was a station for cupcake decorating and another for selfies in front of a collaborative art project.

To encourage spreading positivity, patrons were invited to write something that brings them happiness on a paper sunshine and take a slip of paper with an action on it to bring happiness to somebody else. Patrons wrote everything from friends and family to pizza, tacos, surprises and books.

"My favorite part was watching people's faces light up when they came in. You could feel the essence of sheer joy that comes with doing something just for the fun of it," said Program Librarian Laura Fawcett.

Patrons reacted with smiles. One family happened to stumble upon the program on their very first visit to the library.

There was no lack of participation, or happiness, at the recent celebration at the Canton Public Library.

Teenagers stopped in and went to grab their friends to join in. One young girl, who had been dancing for the entire two hours, thanked each librarian individually as the event came to an end.

Since it took place on the first day of spring, the celebration also marked the end of the library Electrify Your Winter campaign. During that time, staff made efforts to combat the winter blues and cabin fever with at home library resource suggestions and in house programs.

The Canton Public Library is located at 1200 S. Canton Center Road in Canton. Visit www.cantonpl.org/calendar or call (734) 397-0999 for upcoming programs.

Canton trustees hear political update from Lansing lobbyist

Julie Brown
Staff Writer

Stephanie Johnson of the lobbying firm Khander, Reed, Khoury, & Muchmore presented her twice-yearly political update to the Canton Board of Trustees recently.

Johnson praised a grassroots effort to keep the much-publicized Canton tree ordinance, noting with "a lot of political wrangling we were successful."

Johnson noted that there are many new legislators in Lansing due to term limits. She also mentioned Gov. Gretchen Whitmer's March 5 budget recommendation with a 45-cent gasoline tax to be phased in at 15-cent increments from Oct. 1, 2019, to Oct. 1, 2020. Johnson noted possible changes in how roadwork is funded, noting that discussion isn't new.

"If you're in Southeast Michigan, you're probably happy about this," less so in northern Michigan," said Johnson.

She noted Whitmer is proposing more funds for K-12 and higher education, as well as auto insurance reform talk in Lansing.

"There's been a lot of debate, a lot of discussion on this," Johnson said of auto insurance reform.

A Marquette legislator has introduced "dark stores" legislation to address the way in which vacant box stores are assessed, also a Canton issue, Johnson added.

Trustee Sommer Foster inquired about success for road funds, with Johnson saying, "They know they need each other to get anything accomplished. We'll see something shake out."

Johnson also explained that banks are federally insured, necessitating recreational marijuana shops remain cash-only businesses due to federal prohibitions on the substance.

Trustee Steven Sneideman asked about the township road millage approved by voters last August, and "small cell technology." Responding, Supervisor Pat Williams noted the possibility of unattractive boxes dotting the Downtown Development Authority landscape.

"A lot of the bigger townships are in opposition," said Williams of small cell technology.

Easter celebration is set

Registrations for the second annual Unity in the Community Easter Egg Hunt set for Saturday, April 13 are still being accepted.

The free event will take place at the Booker T. Dozier Recreation Complex in Inkster and include a helicopter marshmallow drop, an Easter Egg Hunt with prizes in various categories for children up to age 12.

Registration for the no cost, community event is available through April 6 at Eventbrite. Access the site and then search for Inkster Easter Egg Hunt.

Wayne - Westland

Oh, so close…

The 10th Annual Hockey Night in Westland drew a record breaking crowd who watched as the Wild Wings battled it out against the Detroit Red Wing alumni. More than 1,000 fans watched as Red Wing greats like Darren McCarty, Drew Miller, John Ogrodnick, and Mickey Redmond took the ice alongside former University of Michigan Head Coach Red Berenson and Michigan native and lifetime Wings fan Dave Coulier of the hit TV show Full House. The team fought to maintain their undefeated record in Westland. While the Wild Wings put in a great effort, the alumni all stars proved to be too great. The Wild Wings were defeated with a final score of 9-7. "The Wild Wings could really feel the enthusiasm of the crowd this year," commented Mayor William R. Wild, who was joined on the ice by his 16-year-old son, Luke. "I think we came closer than ever to bringing home a victory, but as always, the real winners are the girls and boys youth athletic programs that utilize the arena." The final numbers for the fundraiser are still being tallied. To date, the event has raised nearly $200,000. Proceeds from the game will contribute to the renovation of the lobby at the Mike Modano Ice Arena.

Council votes to limit fireworks use in city

Those planning to celebrate various holidays in Westland with fireworks may find themselves on the wrong side of the law.

Members of the city council unanimously approved an amendment to the city Fireworks Ordinance recently. The new ordinance conforms to changes in state law which were enacted in December. Amendments to the Michigan Firework Safety Act restrict the use of fireworks in the state and allow for local communities to better control the use of fireworks.

Under the old state law, the use of commercial-grade fireworks was lawful on days surrounding national holidays from 8 a.m. until midnight. There were 30 days of the year in which commercial-grade fireworks could be used. Fines for igniting or using fireworks on prohibited days or times were $500.

Under the adopted amendment in Westland, the number of days and time allowed for fireworks has been significantly decreased to 12 and the times are now restricted to 11 a.m. until 11:45 p.m.

The use of fireworks is permitted between 11 a.m. Dec. 31 and 1 a.m. on Jan. 1; at the prescribed hours of 11 a.m. until 11:45 p.m. on the Saturday and Sunday immediately preceding Memorial Day; June 29 to July 4 on the prescribed times; July 5, if that day is a Friday or Saturday and the Saturday and Sunday immediately preceding Labor Day.

Violations will now be considered a civil infraction and carry a fine of $1,000.

"This issue generates a significant number of complaints among residents each year, particularly during the warmer months," commented Council President Jim Godbout. "This amendment aims to address and alleviate some of their frustrations."

Murder charges are dismissed in death of baby

Second-degree murder charges have been dismissed against a father and his girlfriend in the death of his young son last year.

Judge Dalton Roberson of the Third Circuit Court dismissed the charges against both Matthew Luke, 35, and Jamie Starr, 34, last week in response to a motion from their attorney who claimed that the Wayne County Medical Examiner could not determine the actual cause of death of 22-month-old Devin Bisesi, Luke's son.

According to police reports, the child was kept in a "pack and play portable crib" with a toy box across the top making a cage. When Wayne paramedics responded to the 911 call March 12 of last year at the father's apartment, the child was reportedly cold to the touch. Police said at the time that the boy had been removed from the makeshift cage and the site cleaned prior to the call to emergency services.

Michigan State Police said that an immediate investigation into the death revealed that the child had died between 3 a.m. and 5 p.m. having been unattended for more than 14 hours. Suffocation or asphyxiation was the apparent cause of death, police said at the onset of the investigation.

Luke and Starr were both charged with second-degree murder last fall and remanded to jail.

The charges against Luke were dismissed March 13 and the charge against Starr dismissed on March 8, both before Roberson.

A spokeswoman for the office of Wayne County Prosecutor Kym Worthy said attorneys are deciding whether to appeal the decision of Roberson in the matter.

"I think we have to be very careful in how we approach this and make sure that everything's in order with the state before you just jump in," he said. "It's a lot easier to go forward and jump in rather than try to back out and cost ourselves a lot of money in the process if we were to go the other way. This makes a lot of sense," he said.

Smash and grab robbery reported

Don Howard
Staff Writer

Don's Small Engine Sales and Service Center at 630 S. Mill St. in Plymouth was the latest target of a smash and grab robbery last week. The alarming rate of forced entry robberies in the metro Detroit area had skirted Plymouth, until now.

According to police reports, when officers arrived they discovered the large front window on the east side of the building broken out and once officers gained access they found a large chunk of concrete on the floor inside the building.

Long time business proprietor Jeff Kettenbeil said he was notified of the alarm at approximately 4 a.m. last Thursday. When he arrived at the store he found a hole cut in the chain-link fence to his storage yard, immediately next to the railroad tracks, and several lawnmowers propped up and apparently staged for removal against the fence-next to the opening.

Investigating detectives uploaded video footage from the surveillance cameras of neighboring business establishments and recovered a new Troy Built lawn mower in the parking lot of the nearby Knights of Columbus Council Hall on Fair Street, belonging to Kettenbeil. Reports say the police photographed and examined footprints and dusted the lawn equipment for latent prints.

Inventory determined the thieves stole two Makita chain saws, a Maruyama line-trimmer, and a Dolmar chainsaw from the chain saw display rack that was located in the front window.

Kettenbeil said police suggested there was more than one vehicle involved based on videos from surrounding surveillance cameras. He said no one entered the building through the broken front window.

According to Kettenbeil this was the first store robbery in decades. Kettenbeil has owned the neighborhood business, started in 1985, since he took over operations in 1999. The business specializes in small engine repair, sales, service and parts.

"I'm confident the City of Plymouth police will catch the thugs." Kettenbeil said.

The incident remains under investigation according to police.

Jeff Kettenbeil found the front window of his business smashed and several high-value items taken by thieves last week.

Renovations at Hillside Middle School set to begin

When students return to Hillside Middle School from spring break on April 8, construction will have begun on the planned renovations to the school

According to school principal William R. Jones, reconstruction barriers will be erected in the back parking lot and parents and students will no longer have access to that area the first week of April. The barriers will remain in place, in some manner or another, until construction concludes in the spring of 2021.

"This will lead to some adjustments in our pickup and dropoff procedures," Jones said in a letter to parents last week.

Parents will still be able to drop students off in the front and back of the building, but both of those areas will be somewhat condensed. Avoiding peak drop off times, 7:45-8:10 a.m., is advisable, Jones noted.

Students may enter the building as early as 7:15 a.m. from the front doors and wait in the cafeteria until they are released to their lockers at 7:45 a.m. Students who ride the bus will still be dropped off and picked up over the bridge at their regular location; barriers will be in place to guide them and keep them separated from traffic and the construction zone, he advised in the letter.

"We will maintain some visitor parking near the front of the building and some staff parking will shift to the new lot across Eight Mile Road near the football field. Parents and community members may use that lot if necessary when visiting the building, or when attending Parks and Recreation events, but we ask that students not be dropped off there as it will be a high traffic area with cars and buses," Jones said in the letter.

The Northville Parks and Recreation Department office has been moved to the Northville Township Hall during the Hillside construction, but there will still parks and recreation activities in the Hillside gymnasium, usually outside regular school hours.

"We appreciate everyone's patience and flexibility over the coming months as our new building takes shape. It is an exciting time to be a Raider," Jones concluded.

Expansion of Rural Hill Cemetery OK'd by city council

Members of the Northville City Council recently approved a contract for the expansion of Rural Hill Cemetery.

The contract for $120,034 was awarded to the low bidder, Premier Group, for the phase II expansion of the cemetery which will add an additional available 541 plots at the site. The work involved will include the grading of expansion area located on the south side of West Seven Mile Road east of South Rogers Street in the city. Pavement will be installed and topsoil and grass seed added to attain full coverage of the area, officials said.

All the proposed aspects of the project will adhere to the engineering and landscape architectural plans detailed in the bid specifications, according to officials.

Officials said that the expansion would require the removal of five mature trees which will be replaced by new trees, either in the cemetery or elsewhere in the city to ensure "zero tree loss."

Council members said that city personnel would continue to monitor the bridge at the cemetery site as the structure is scheduled for repair or replacement. The date for that work has not been discussed or scheduled at this time.
